Diplomats Press For Peace In Panama

PANAMA (AP) — Strong diplomatic efforts were launched on all sides today to resolve the crisis surrounding Panam's decision to break relations with the United States and scrap the 61-year-old Panama Canal Treaty.

In the wake of violence that claimed 23 lives—20 Panamanians and 3 U.S. soldiers—the emphasis shifted to maintaining a state of relative calm. Jails in the capital city were jammed with Panamanians arrested for looting and causing disturbances.

A peace mission from the Organization of American States (OAS) arrived from Washington and arranged for immediate ate conferences with President Roberto Chiari and Foreign Minister Galileo Solis.

President Johnson's special envoys were also at work. U.S. Assistant Secretary of State Thomas C. Mann and Secretary of the Army Cyrus R. Vance met for an hour and a half Friday night with President Chiari.

Even as they conferred at the presidential palace new shooting was reported at the canal zone border. Panama officials said U.S. troops opened fire. The only casualties reported were six Panamanians injured by flying glass.

Quiet prevailed in the capital this morning with flags remaining at half-staff and most businesses closed as Panamanians continued mourning for the dead.

Tight security precautions were under way for funeral services planned for early next week. A mass national funeral may be held.

Jails were filled in Panama as National Guardsmen rounded up looters and other perpetrators of violence. One unofficial estimate said 500 were arrested. U. S. establishments were the major target of demonstrators who caused damage estimated at thousands of dollars.

In the disorders that started late Thursday Panama reported 20 of its citizens killed and hundreds wounded in gunfights with U.S. soldiers. U.S. casualties were listed as 3 dead and 49 wounded.

The rioting erupted after a fight between U.S. and Panamanian students over display of their national banners, but behind the immediate cause is the broader question of sovereignty over the canal zone.

At an emergency meeting of the U.N. Security Council Friday night, Panama demanded that the United States relinquish control of the canal. Panama's delegate, Aquilino Boyd, said the canal should be either nationalized or placed under international jurisdiction.

As news of the dispute echoed around the world and brought new Communist denunciations of the United States, the Organization of American States dispatched its own peace mission to Panama.

In Washington, Johnson telephoned Chiari in an effort to calm passions as the new administration faced its first major international crisis since taking office six weeks ago.

During the telephone talk, Chiari agreed to meet with Mann and Vance, and the two men left immediately by jet for Panama.

Chiari followed up Thursday night's recall of the Panamanian ambassador to Washington with a complete break in diplomatic relations with the United States.

Charging "unmerciful acts of aggression" by U.S. troops against Panama's civilian population, Chiari's government said only a U.S. promise to revise the canal treaty could bring a restoration of relations.

The 1903 treaty gives the United States perpetual control over the 10-mile-strip across Panama but Panamanians have long insisted they own the land.

After bloody rioting in November 1959, resulting from an attempt by Panamanian students to plant their flag in the Canal Zone, President Dwight D. Eisenhower said the United States had recognized Panama's titular sovereignty for a half century. He ordered the U.S. and Panamanian flags raised side by side at the edge of the Canal Panamanian flag flown wherever the Stars and Stripes is raised in the Canal Zone.

Then came this week's explosion. U.S. students at the Canal Zone's Balboa High School defiantly raised an American flag, and brawled with Panamanian students attempting to raise their own banner in front of the school.

The Panamanians charged their flag had been defiled. When word of the incident swept across the country of little more than one million persons, the violence began.

City Heeds Conservation

Wellsville's Water Supply Maintained By Pumping

Wellsville's water supply, which reached a "critical" low point this week, appears to be "holding its own" since pumping operations were started Friday from a temporary source.

This was the word today from city officials, who commented the response has been "tremendous" to appeals for volunteer aid and for the conservative use of water.

Pumping was started Friday from a strip mine pit located two or three miles above the reservoir, which contains only about 6 to 8 feet of usable water.

A FOURTH and much larger pump was to be taken to the pit today and the principal consumers have been invited to a meeting Tuesday afternoon at 1 at City Hall to hear a full report of the situation.

The industries and businesses are the main users. The emergency, which had been anticipated, developed Thursday when city officials went into action with a plan to combat the crisis.

A special meeting was held with county and state officials to determine what could be done. Council then held a special meeting Thursday night to adopt a resolution declaring a state of emergency and appealing for state and federal aid, if actual need materializes and the supply fails.

AS NOT enough were present to adopt the resolution under suspension of rules, Council held another special meeting Friday night to give it second reading and it will be adopted at a third special meeting tonight at 7.

Safety - Service Director Fred Baldasare said this morning that three gasoline - powered pumps were put into operation at the strip mine pit. There are two pits separated by an island. The water, which was tested and found suitable for human consumption, is being taken from the larger. The smaller, which already is trickling into the stream feeding the reservoir, also will be pumped when the first is drained.

The three pumps are delivering between 12,000 to 15,000 gallons per hour. The ordinary consumption the past month has been about 25,000 gallons per hour. As the reservoir level doesn't appear to have dropped anymore, it is a strong indication that the residents have recognized the emergency and are doing their part, the director and Mayor William Daugherty said.

A LARGER pump, which will handle 670 gallons per minute at full capacity, will be taken to the pits today and put into operation. It will be hauled in by an auto wrecker, as it is too large to carry otherwise, the director said.

Volunteer firemen are working in four hour shifts, manning the pumps around the clock. Salamander heaters and

21 On School Bus Unhurt In Collision

Twenty-one East Liverpool High School students aboard a school bus escaped unhurt in a minor collision Friday afternoon on Virginia Ave. in which the driver of the auto was cited.

The students were aboard a Snyder Bus Co. vehicle operated by Charles E. Tice, 36, of 20 Valley Trailer Court, an off-duty police officer, when it was hit in the rear by a 1963 sedan operated by Paul L. Brand of Box 1276.

Brand was cited by police for failing to stop in the assured clear distance.

Tice said he had halted at the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks with the flashing red blinkers on and had just started to move when the bus was hit in the rear.

Brand blamed a slippery street, telling officers he saw the halted bus and applied his

U.S., Panama Okay U.N. Plea To End Conflict

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — The United States and Panama today welcomed an appeal from the Security Council to end their bloody conflict in the strategic Latin-American nation.

But Panama stood by its demands that the Panama Canal Zone be taken out of U.S. hands and either be nationalized or put under international control.

The Panamanian delegate, Aquilino Boyd, said the zone was Panamanian territory but that because of "iniquitous treaties" Panama was not being given a fair share of canal revenues.

"The State Department has turned a deaf ear to the claims of Panama," he said.

At the end of the emergency session, Council President Renan Castrillo Justiniano of Bolivia sent messages to U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Panamanian Foreign Minister Galileo Solis, pleading with their governments "to bring to an immediate end the exchange of fire and the bloodshed."

The messages, sent with the council's consent, also asked them "to impose the utmost restraint over the military forces under their command and to protect the civilian population." Boyd asked the 11 - nation council to meet in emergency session after flying in from Panama to press the Panamanian charges of U.S. aggression and mass murder against Panamanian citizens.

The council convened at 9:41 p.m. Friday and ended at 12:34

Castroite Agitators Hinted

Johnson Asks Full Report On Panama Anti-U.S. Riot

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has ordered a full report on the causes of anti-U.S. rioting in Panama, including any evidence that Communist agents whipped up mob action to fatal extremes of violence.

U.S. officials said they have reason to believe some Castroite Communist agitators went into action very quickly after the demonstrations began late Thursday. Johnson reportedly wants to know whether they played a leading role in arousing mob fury, organizing snipers and supplying guns and explosives for attacks on U.S. Canal Zone installations.

The President, grappling with his first major international crisis, and Secretary of State Dean Rusk were keeping in close touch with Asst. Secretary of State Thomas C. Mann and Secretary of the Army Cyrus Vance, who flew to Panama Friday.

Johnson told the special envoys to get all the facts bearing on the outbreak of violence and to make every effort through discussions with the Panamanian government and U.S. authorities in the Canal Zone to restore peace. At the United Nations Friday night, U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson said the talks were under way.

On another front, Johnson was faced with Panama's demand for drastic revision of the 61-year-old treaty by which the United States exercises absolute control over the Canal Zone.

In one of the numerous ac-am. today. It was the council's second emergency nighttime session in a month. The council convened two weeks ago to hear charges from Cyprus that Turkey was planning an invasion of Cyprus to settle the recent fighting on the Eastern Mediterranean island.

U.S. Delegate Adlai E. Stevenson said the United States would comply "in letter and spirit" with the messages sent to Rusk and Solis. Boyd greeted the message "with pleasure."

Boyd earlier accused the United States of aggression in the zone and claimed U.S. police and soldiers killed 20 Panamanians and wounded more than 300 by shooting into a crowd of Panamanians demonstrating for flag-raising rights.

Stevenson denied Boyd's charges of aggression. He said the police escorted the Panamanian students out of the zone but that when disorderly crowds returned they stopped them with small-caliber fire "to protect the lives and property of American citizens residing there."

Stevenson said the United States "is ready through direct negotiations with the Panamanian government to try to resolve such differences as may exist."

Stevenson noted that the Inter-American Peace Commission of the Organization of American States in Washington had undertaken a fact-finding mission to Panama, adding that "such local disputes can most effectively be dealt with through regional procedures."

Major Cause Of Lung Cancer

U.S. Panel Finds Smoking Cigarettes Health Hazard

WASHINGTON (AP)—Smoking cigarettes is a health hazard that calls for corrective action—and is a major cause of lung cancer and other death-dealing disease, especially in men, a blue-ribbon federal panel reported today.

In short, the panel indicated, the more you smoke, the greater your risk of an early death.

The 10-man scientific panel—spending 14 months in its study of available evidence — also found:

1. Cigarette smoking far outweighs all other causes of lung cancer in men—and the data for women point in the same direction.

2. While male cigarette smokers have a higher death rate from heart and blood vessel disease than non - smoking males, it is not clear as yet that smoking is the cause.

3. Cigarette smoking is a significant cause of lung cancer in the larynx or voice box in men.

4. The risk of lung cancer increases the longer you smoke and the more cigarettes you smoke in a day. It lessens if you quit smoking.

5. Cigarette smoking is the most important cause of chronic bronchitis—the coughing irritation of the bronchial tubes—and increases the risk of death from that disease.

6. Cigarette smoking is related to emphysema, a hardening and growing inefficiency of the lungs. But it cannot as yet be called a cause. However, cigarette smoking is associated with a greater risk of dying of emphysema.

7. For most of the people in the United States cigarette smoking is a much greater cause of chronic disease of the lungs and bronchial airways than is pollution of the atmosphere.

Already health and anti-smoking groups are issuing blasts at smoking and urging educational campaigns against it.

The impact of the report on the big tobacco industry and tobacco producing states was also being watched.

Because it is Saturday the stock exchanges were closed and thus will show no immediate reaction. Even with expectation of a bad report, tobacco stocks have remained on a fairly even keel during the week.

Despite the previous rash of medical reports and findings here and abroad condemning smoking as a health hazard, Americans were reported by the Agriculture Department to have lighted up a record number of cigarettes last year — an estimated 523 billion.

At work for 14 months poring over the evidence, the surgeon general's advisory committee was under strict orders not to offer any recommendations for federal action in the report.

The committee's assigned duty was to weigh the available scientific and statistical evidence and take the best measure of the risks smoking presents to the individual.

A second, later report—perhaps by a different panel—will survey those risks and offer

Club Hears Sgt. Rizzo

Patrol Officer Explains Speed Rules In Lions Talk

Law enforcement officers and the general public have different concepts of speeding, State Highway Patrol Sgt. Ralph J. Rizzo explained to the Lions Club Friday afternoon at the Travelers Hotel.

When the public talks about speeding, it generally is thinking in terms over 70 miles an hour, the new commanding officer of the Lisbon barracks said.

"But speed always is relative to the surrounding conditions — the volume of traffic, road conditions and the type of highway," Sgt. Rizzo said.

When a police officer talks about speeding, he is thinking in terms of speed in excess of conditions. A motorist may be within the legal speed limits but still be driving too fast for road conditions.

Speeding always is blamed as the chief cause of traffic accidents but statistics bear out the fact that most collisions and most fatal accidents occur in the 40-50 mile range where drivers are going too fast for conditions, Sgt. Rizzo declared.

The second major cause of accidents is drivers who are left of center, such as passing over yellow lines, on curves and at hillcrests.

The third major factor is the failure to yield the right-of-way and that usually involves elderly motorists, Sgt. Rizzo said. Age sometimes slows the reflexes and hearing and sight is not as keen, he pointed out.

But the patrol officer explained there are motorists 70 years old who are excellent drivers and others at 40 should not be driving.

Sgt. Rizzo paid tribute to the uniformed officers at the Lisbon barracks, pointing out they investigated 898 accidents in 1963, including 18 fatal mishaps in which 28 were killed, 319 injury accidents with 537 hurt and property damage totaled $468,000.

He reviewed the record of the Lisbon barracks during the past year and briefly outlined the history of the patrol.

Sgt. Rizzo was introduced by Christ Pallis, program chairman.

Calcutta Postal Facility Shows Gain In Receipts

Postal receipts at the Calcutta Branch office totaled $7,781 in 1963, the first full year of its operation, Postmaster Samuel W. Brown said today.

Brown said the receipts were up $3,573, a gain of virtually 85 per cent over the $4,208 in the first 11 months of its existence in 1962.

The comparison of the two years showed 461 registered mail, 1,859 insured parcels, and 1,696 money orders last year compared to 256 registers, 1,164 insured parcels and only 907 money orders in 1962.

Brown said more people are using the Calcutta branch located at the Potters Lumber Co. since parking space is not at such a premium as it is at the main office.

No mail is delivered from the branch and there is no rental box service, but mail deposited at the branch is brought to the main office daily in time to connect with outgoing dispatches.

Mayor Dean Stockman said Council will also discuss the request to change the police and fire phone to the County Jail from a service station.

County Treasurer Shows Old Coins At Legion Meeting

LISBON — Columbiana County Treasurer Vincent C. Judge displayed some of the old coins from his collection, discussing the history of coinage, at the meeting of the Columbiana County American Legion Council Friday night at Post 31 at East Palestine. Bert Keck of Glenmoor Post 736, county commander, presided.

Other guests were Dwight Bush of North Georgetown Post 574, 10th District commander, and Ronald Mackall of Post 31, chairman of the County Soldiers Relief Commission.

James Cregar of Post 374 of East Liverpool, county first vice commander, reported the county membership at 2,294, or 449 less than the 1964 goal.

Kenneth Brooks, first vice commander, and Bob Milne, adjutant, both of Post 374, reported their unit had reached its membership quota of 632.

Walter McCoy of Lisbon Post 275, county education chairman, said Buckeye Boys State will be held at Ohio University in Athens June 11-20 and the deadline for reservations is March 15.

He also announced winners in the Americanism and government tests held in the County Schools. They are Grade 9 — Gayle Smith and Russell Lipp, East Palestine; Grade 10 — Susan Elaine Hough and James Ferrall, Columbiana; Grade 11 — Margaret Springer and John Herrington, East Palestine; and Grade 12 — Katherine Yoder of East Palestine and Joe Wojtecki of Columbiana.

Sponsoring the tests were Post 31, East Palestine, Post 290, Columbiana, Post 374, East Liverpool, and Post 574, North Georgetown.

Mackall said Mrs. Virginia Mast is resigning as service officer for the Soldiers Relief Commission and that applications for the position will be reviewed Wednesday at a special meeting of the commission.

Bush reminded that the district winter Conference will be held in New Philadelphia this weekend. The bowling tournament will be held tonight and Schools of Instruction and business sessions tomorrow.

William Heacock of Columbus, state department second vice commander, will be the guest speaker. A. E. Walker of the Canton School system will speak on his trip to Russia.

Next meeting of council will be held Feb. 14 at the Post 131 in Leetonia.

Canton Man Is Cited After Auto Rolls Over

A Canton motorist was cited for driving at a speed in excess of road conditions after his car rolled over on Route 45 seven miles north of Wellsville Friday afternoon at 3:45.

The State Highway Patrol at Lisbon said Michael New, 43, was rounding a curve when he lost control and went off the right side of the highway. The car then returned to the road, went off the left side and upset.

New suffered a cut on the head and sprains of the back and ribs. He was treated at Salem City Hospital.

Salem District Man Fined And Sentenced

LISBON — A Salem area man was sentenced Friday by Common Pleas Judge Joel H. Sharp when his request for a new trial was overruled on charges of driving while intoxicated.

Gene Daniel Boals, 33, of R. D. 4 received six months in the County Jail, was fined $500 and costs and his driver's license was suspended for six months. He was found guilty by a jury Oct. 14.

Judge Sharp suspended all but 30 days of the sentence and half of the fine provided he is of good behavior.

Now is the time to act on this great opportunity. Every hair-worried person (man or woman) should take advantage of this FREE CONSULTATION. Crushed To Death

WELLSBURG, W. Va. (AP)—Delbert E. Williams, 19, of Wellsburg, was crushed to death Friday as he worked under his automobile. Police said the car slipped off a bumper-jack and fell on him.

Water Supply Maintained

a windbreaker built out of canvas has been set up at the scene to help the men stand the severe cold. Baldasare, who was at the pits until about midnight Friday, said the weather was severe. The area is completely covered with snow.

Holes were chopped in the ice to lower the hoses down to the water from the pumps.

A portable generator was put into operation last night about 10 to provide light. The director said there have been contributions of instant coffee, sugar, canned and powdered milk, paper cups and plastic spoons for the men. Another promised to provide doughnuts today, he said.

THE DIRECTOR said he has received numerous offers of small sump pumps from various individuals, along with persons volunteering to lay a temporary pipeline, should it be necessary.

The pipeline is the final phase of the plan should the temporary supply not hold out. With the adoption of the resolution declaring an emergency, the federal government will be asked to provide pipe, now stored at Marion, to run a line either from East Liverpool or to pump water from the Ohio River or a creek to the reservoir.

"Enough can't be said about the wonderful response," officials said.

Mayor Daugherty said letters are being sent to all the principal water consumers, alerting them to the emergency and inviting them to the meeting Tuesday.

AT THE COUNCIL meeting Thursday night, the mayor said many individuals, organizations and others will be contacted for volunteer work should it be necessary to lay the pipeline.

Baldasare said that a crew was sent out this morning to find and open any beaver dams which might be in the headwaters of the stream feeding the reservoir. They also will search for other possible pits or pockets of water which can be drained.

Nehru Believed Sicker Than Reports Indicate

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Indications mounted today that Prime Minister Nehru is sicker than official statements have led the Indian public to believe.

Woman Questioned

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—An unidentified woman driver is being questioned in the death of a 69-year-old man whose body was found Friday night on a west side street. Officers said the victim, Donald Oyer, apparently was struck by the woman's car which did not stop immediately. She returned to the scene within a few minutes, however.

Highlandtown firemen received the call about 8, but the one - story frame, some two miles out the Highlandtown - New Salisbury Rd., was burning out of control when they arrived.

Cold Will Moderate Further On Weekend

There was a hard frost this morning and the temperature dipped to 11 but the cold didn't seem half as intense compared to Friday because the biting winds had diminished. Yet, the mercury was 4 degrees lower.

Spending Can Be Controlled

President Johnson's hold strokes with a new financial broom have reassured money capitals here and abroad. New York, London, Paris and Rome are equally impressed with this chief executive who says spending can be controlled and takes steps to prove it.

There now is a brighter prospect for correcting the imbalance of payments depleting U.S. gold reserves. There is a brighter prospect for stopping a lengthening era of deficit financing, a brighter prospect for stabilizing the purchasing power of American dollars. Investments will pick up. Values will be saved.

Though it remains to be seen whether the new President can keep his promises to shrink federal employment, cut back military spending and get more value out of taxpayers' dollars, he has made the promises — and that, itself, is a radical departure from recent custom.

FURTHER reassurance is gained from the fact he has laid hands on the Department of Defense, the only place in the federal government where large sums can be saved.

Still further reassurance is gained by the cooperation of Secretary of Defense

McNamara, who has had the courage to point out places where money can be saved without impairing national defense.

The United States can afford to spend public funds at a prodigal rate and plunge ever deeper into debt, apologists for spenders always point out. They say the country is living well within its means and its indebtedness is not unwieldy. Therefore, no one should be worried.

But the reason for worry never has been the country's ability to pay its way in present circumstances. It has been its apparent inability to control its spending. The United States has been like a potential alcoholic who refuses to think of future danger and keeps on drinking.

UNLESS it could show determination to avert disaster by pulling up short, it was rushing headlong to meet disaster halfway.

President Johnson has evinced a strong intention to stop the headlong rush.

Unfortunately, he has offset this plus-effect with the minus-effect of promises that would cost more than could be saved. But he has declared that U.S. spending can be controlled, and for that he has earned praises wherever people had been made uneasy by doubts that spending could be checked short of disaster.

Blame Both Places

Commerce Secretary Luther H. Hodges has gone out of his way to clear up one of the puzzles about the wheat deal with Russia—a high export subsidy in one particular deal, to enable the grain dealer to absorb the higher freight costs of shipping the wheat in U.S. ships.

The Department of Agriculture previously had denied this was so. But Secretary Hodges, whose department issues the export licenses, says it was done this way because the rule about shipping half the wheat in U.S. ships made it necessary to meet part of the cost with a high subsidy—72 cents a bushel in the deal concerned.

It does not sit well with U.S. taxpayers skeptical about wheat deals with Russia to learn that their government is being obliged to pay still another subsidy to get the grain out of the country. This is free enterprise?

But the fact is U.S. wheat cannot be sold abroad unless it meets the world price, and the only way it can meet the world price is with a federal subsidy, which varies according to the kind of wheat and the circumstances of the deal. It is a sick and peculiar way to carry on free enterprise, but the blame should be put on both right places.

First is the practice of raising wheat solely for the purpose of collecting a domestic subsidy. Second is the requirement that at least half the wheat which goes to the Soviet Union in the wheat deal must go in subsidized U.S. ships, which no one can afford to keep afloat any other way. The wheat subsidy in this instance is just more of the same.

Letter From Max

Dear Truman Twill:

That was an interesting conjecture about whether you should try a belly-slam on a sled at your age. I think you should try it. We could sell a lot of tickets and get quite a crowd.

You once knew all these things, but if it has been so long since you tried a belly-slam it might be well to refresh your memory.

Don't try a belly-slam on fresh snow unless there is some ice under it, otherwise the sled will stay where it lands and you will go ankle over clavicle and wonder who happen.

Be careful your legs don't hit the back edge of the sled just above your knees or you will be nursing bruises.

Your description of your old coasting place when you were a boy reminded me of Myers Hill, where we used to coast in winter. It was sort of horseshoe-shaped like an amphitheater and two guys would start at either side and meet just before the bottom of the hill and see which one could upset the other's sled.

The snow provided a soft covering on the ground and, being dressed to stay warm for hours outdoors, we had on about as much padding as a football player so there never were any casualties, although it is surprising when you think about it.

At the bottom of the hill were some ridges running across the line of travel so if you had enough speed you could get some jumps on your sled. Sometimes we built up these ridges and managed to lift our sleds off the ground for a distance of a few feet before landing again. Sort of a backyard Olympics.

Here is something you never thought of: the busiest period of the year for that telephone number you dial to get the right time is at Christmas when everybody who got a watch as a gift wants to check up

Purely Personal

When I wrote in this column recently that I always wonder whose American way of life people like Eddie Rickenbacker are interested in saving, I used him as an example—not a target for criticism. I want to know the specifications before signing up to save an "American way of life." I might find myself hooked up with a false front.

I am encouraged by the occasional evidence that teen-agers are as tired of being worried about as I am by hearing people worry about them. My generation should have had it half so good when we were teen-agers, but no one worried about us.

The poor funeral directors have been trapped into defending all funeral directors against charges of unscrupulous practice, the same thing that caused unionists to think they had to defend all unionists, including the indefensible ones.

I am impatient with statistics that purport to show spending for schools in one state is higher than another state. There simply is no basis for comparison, unless appraisal values and local tax rates are known—and they never are.

Much lost motion in civilization would be saved if criticism were limited by law and custom to those who know what they are talking about—whether the subject happened to be art, literature, politics, or public administration.

Arizona Sen. Goldwater is running officially for the presidency at last and I am hoping he will not forget to show flashes of the uproarious good humor that has set him apart from the ordinary run of men who take themselves seriously.

I no longer feel that Jacqueline Kennedy needs help from me, the way I did when she first came to the White House. But I still encounter savage attacks on her behavior, her appearance and her very existence—attacks motivated wholly by the instinct of the old to destroy the young.

I count every day saved at this time of year when there is no snow crisis, because by this time last year all of us had turned into snowbirds.

Exhausting Our Patience

Johnson Opens Door To Labor

By Victor Riesel

over the Russians fascinated the group.

THE PRESIDENT had the red carpet out all the way.

The union high command to its delight, was asked to come into the White House by the "social entrance"—not the usual "business" or "official" gate. Promptly at 1 o'clock they found Mrs. Johnson awaiting them, explaining why the President would be 10 minutes late.

For a while it was all social—no business, just cocktails. When Mr. Johnson arrived "he was the master master-of-ceremonies," one of the labor leaders said later.

AT THE SAME table were Herman Kenin, head of the musicians federation, Maurice Hutcheson, the carpenters' leader, Secretary of Labor Wirtz and one of labor's important, albeit anonymous, intellectuals, Lane Kirkland, chief assistant to Mr. Meany. Except for Reuther and Meany, guests drew their seats by lot from a bowl.

President Johnson was at his folksy best. He autographed menus; explained how, as a school teacher, he had put a student over his knee and spanked him, and talked confidentially with Reuther and Meany. When he introduced his senior Cabinet men, he said: "When you were here last, I said this house is always open to you because I want to know what you think. But today is different. Now I want you to know what we are thinking."

He read two pages of his State of the Union speech draft. He said he would push for heavy expenditures along the lines of labor's program. But he said he did not want a "nuclear WPA."

EXPLAINING why he and his Cabinet were being so frank and revealing, the President said to the union chiefs "you represent millions of people."

He indicated that he realized full well that they led the biggest, best organized bloc of people in the land.

Then he implied that he would try to hold on to the John Kennedy staff, many of whom, such as Pierre Salinger, were in the room. He introduced Ted Sorensen by saying:

"My daddy used to tell me it was not good to have information unless you have judgment. The man here who has both information and judgement in Ted Sorensen."

There was much more. But these words seemed to set the direction of the administration in the months to come.

Baker's Senate Banker

By Don Bonafede

Bobby Baker enjoyed making the big and flashy gesture, like cashing small fortunes in checks at the Senate disbursing office.

"I have cashed many checks for Mr. Baker," related Robert A. Brenkworth, Senate financial clerk. "I don't know how many or how often. But some were for sizable amounts, in excess of $2,000."

Mr. Brenkworth noted that the checks were always of varying amounts, "maybe $100, $500, or $2,000."

He said his office did not keep a record of the checks cashed by Mr. Baker, the Senate majority secretary until his resignation last October.

No, reported Mr. Brenkworth, he did not see anything strange in the fact that Mr. Baker asked him to cash checks of such big amounts.

However, Senate investigators scrutinizing Mr. Baker's extracurricular financial affairs have taken an unusual interest in his check-cashing habits.

They are particularly absorbed in the mystery of where Mr. Baker obtained the huge bundles of cash which he reputedly stored in his Senate office.

One member of Mr. Brenkworth's staff said that only senators were privileged to cash checks at the disbursing office.

"But Mr. Brenkworth has his own cash drawer and could have cashed checks for Mr. Baker if he chose," he added.

During the Senate Rules Committee's single public hearing in the Baker case, Mrs. Gertrude Novak testified she sometimes went to Mr. Baker's Capitol office to collect money for business deals she and her late husband had entered into with the former Senate aide.

The money, she testified, was generally packaged in bundles of $100 bills and untidily piled upon Mr. Baker's desk. Once she picked up $13,300 in this unbusiness-like manner, she recalled.

She said she didn't know why Mr. Baker sometimes asked her to collect the money at his Senate office, while at other times she was told to pick it up at his home or downtown business office.

"I had no idea where he got the money," she told the committee.

Another incident underlining Mr. Baker's penchant for the grandiose was noted following efforts by him to sell a $28,800 cooperative townhouse he owns in Southwest Washington.

History Repeating?

By David Lawrence

Sales To Reds Recall Pre-World War II Era

The same circumstances which in the 1930's helped to bring on World War II are beginning to be visible again to the naked eye. The quest for profit, irrespective of consequences has made a shambles of one of the strongest instruments of foreign policy that the free nations possess — namely, the power of an economic boycott or embargo.

Plainly, the mistakes made by the Department of State here — under the preceding as well as the present administration — emphasize that, unless there is unity among the Western allies, the chances of thwarting the Communists, either in Europe or even in Cuba, will steadily diminish.

America decided, for instance, not only to sell wheat to the Russians but to allow government credit to be used for the transaction. Companies in Great Britain now have decided to sell buses to Castro in Cuba, making available to him transportation for his troops and, even more important, indicating to the whole world that Communist Cuba can receive aid from the closest friends of the United States in the Western alliance.

This is a severe blow to American prestige in Europe as well as in Latin America. It disrupts the unity the Western world seemingly possessed and notifies Moscow that it now can trade freely with all the Western countries because of the precedent set by both American and British commercialism.

THIS ISN'T a novel development. Before World War I and even during that bloody conflict itself, traders in Great Britain actually sold strategic goods and other supplies to the enemy.

One of the most interesting books published after World War I was that of a British naval attaché stationed in Stockholm, Sweden, who disclosed that shipments from Britain to Sweden — against which he had repeatedly protested — were re-transported during the war to purchasers in the German empire. The British government at the same time had criticized the shipment of goods by American companies to neutral countries.

It was only after the United States entered the war that enough influence was brought to bear to stop the trading between British merchants themselves and the eventual recipients in Germany.

In the 1930's, an attempt was made to embargo oil to Italy in order to punish Mussolini for his aggression in Ethiopia.

The Western European countries did not go along, and America's efforts in that direction were futile.

Indeed, the records also show that copper and other strategic materials were sold to Hitler by the British up to within a few months of the outbreak of war in 1939.

No war will be won or lost by the sale of wheat or buses, but the principle of an embargo is vital as a weapon of diplomacy. It has, of course, been tried in vain before, but there always has been hope that an enlightened opinion in the free countries of the world would see the possibility of preventing war by using economic force.

SO LONG as commercialism supersedes all other considerations, an economic embargo will be difficult to apply. It has been urged that the United Nations should, in some way, bring about effective embargoes as a means of preventing war but when distinctions are made between strategic and non-strategic goods, the door gradually is opened to the sale of a variety of supplies which a prospective aggressor would like to acquire.

Faced as the world might be with "limited" wars that could grow into nuclear war, it has been the contention of the advocates of the embargo formula that world opinion would sooner or later have to accept the restraints that an embargo agreement would impose.

The United States has not been free from blame in recent months. When the sale of wheat to Russia was proposed, voices were raised in Congress urging that the United States should not give its consent.

Canada, of course, had sold wheat to Red China, and other members of the Western Alliance had been trading with the Communist countries. But political pressure was brought to bear on the Kennedy administration to try to get the wheat deal consummated so as to sell some of the agricultural surplus of this country.

SO TODAY an official source in London says to the press:

"The United States has a surplus of wheat, and we have a surplus of buses."

It's believed probable now that other commodities will be sold to Cuba, Russia presumably will lend more and more money to Castro and help him finance the purchase of needed goods.

Improving economic conditions inside Cuba is very important in maintaining internal peace. If they worsen, the discontent of the people will increase. Now that Castro has been able to get help from Russia and from Great Britain, this will be publicized widely inside Cuba and will discourage revolutionary efforts.

For all practical purposes, therefore, Communist Cuba now has been propped up, and the efforts of the United States to bring about the disintegration of Cuba by an economic boycott have been seriously impaired.

Aqaba, desert port on the Gulf of Aqaba, is fast becoming the Acapulco of Jordan.

The Middle East kingdom's only outlet to the sea boasts a modern, air-conditioned resort hotel, long stretches of white beach and facilities for water skiing, skin diving and fishing.

Aqaba's ambitious planners already have laid out a network of wide, palm-fringed boulevards for a new town of 40,000 next to the old mud-brick village of 6,000 inhabitants.

Aqaba not only is a growing tourist attraction, it is a vital port and transportation hub for nearly landlocked Jordan. Nearby is Eilat, Israel's outlet in the Red Sea.

Modern port facilities with enlarged piers, new cranes and warehouses now handle Jordan's growing potash and phosphate exports from the Dead Sea regions. In the past, the Arab kingdom's exports and imports had to go largely by indirect routes through Syria and Lebanon.

Serving Sizes, The Key To Weight Control

A nutritionist friend asked, "Why don't you write more about serving sizes? For those of us who were taught to clean up our plates, creeping overweight is a constant threat."

Serving sizes are a vital part of the weight control story. With our changed way of living, the portions to which we are accustomed are now too ample. But there is another important angle: With slightly smaller servings, food capacity can be gradually diminished. The amount we eat is influenced by habit.

OFF HAND, one might think the solution would be to cut portions on all foods. It's not that simple. In the interest of good nutrition, serving sizes of foods which furnish essential nutrients cannot be changed drastically.

Protein is the backbone of each of the three meals. The serving sizes of lean meat, fish or poultry should not be lessened. One - fourth pound, cooked weight, is a satisfying dinner portion. A luncheon portion can be two to three ounces, cooked weight. If cottage cheese is used as a protein source, the serving should be one - half to three - quarters cup. Breakfast should include the choice of an egg, or a serving of cereal, with a cup of milk. A pint of skim milk or buttermilk is included in the balanced low calorie diet.

SAUCES AND added fat on vegetables boost the calories. A teen - ager asks, "Is extra seasoning really more fattening? I prepare green beans with bacon, or bacon grease, as this gives them a better flavor. I eat 3 to 4 cups a day. My brother tells me that this bacon increases the calories considerably. Does it?"

Yes! Your brother is right. Count each tablespoon of added fat at 100 calories. Dieters must be alerted to hidden fat calories — in butter melted on vegetables, in cream sauces and casserole dishes, fat-laden gravies, the fat of meat, and, of course, the fat absorbed in frying.

Serving sizes of fruit juices: Citrus fruit, 5 oz. juice, or one orange or one - half grapefruit. Plus second fruit. If fruits are canned with sugar, limit serving to ½ cup. Smaller food portions mean smaller figure proportions.

Send stamped, self - addressed, long envelope for Revised Calorie Chart. Address request to Ida Jean Kain, care of The Review. Post card requests cannot be answered.

tions which the government of President Roberto Chiari took Friday, Panama gave notice to Washington that it was breaking off diplomatic relations and that it denounced the treaty. The pact was signed in 1903, concurrent with the establishment of Panama's independence, and it has been revised on at least two occasions by Panamanian demand.

Chiari is reported to have insisted in the past on a substantial increase in the $1.93 million annual fee that the United States now pays to Panama because of its use of the Canal Zone. He also wants some voice in the management of the canal.

The Johnson administration has not reacted publicly to Panama's denunciation of the pact, although Stevenson rejected at the United Nations Panamanian charges of U.S. aggression.

Officials said privately that the treaty gives the United States perpetual rights in the Canal Zone, to be exercised as if the United States actually had full sovereignty over the zone, and that there is no provision in the treaty for denunciation.

suggestions as to what can be done.

In the years preceding the report there has been a line-up against smoking.

The roster reads like this: The American Cancer Society, the American Heart Association, the National Tuberculosis Association, the American Public Health Association, the U.S. Public Health Service, the British Ministry of Health and the Royal College of Physicians, and others.

Interest in the report was high in tobacco producing states which each year produce 523 billion cigarettes, 7 billion cigars, and nearly 170 million pounds of other tobacco products from pipe tobacco to snuff.

The $7.5 billion the American smoker spends each year, provides federal, state and local governments with $3.2 billion in taxes, and is the economic base for 750,000 farm families.

Tobacco companies were invited to give the television industry their reaction to the committee's report.

The firms were asked to discuss the matter before the Television Code Review Board of the National Association of Broadcasters at Miami, Jan. 22-23. Representatives of all the television networks were invited to join in the discussion.

The views will be considered as part of a study of how to handle tobacco advertising on television in light of the government report.

The tobacco industry has argued that no medical proof has been developed that shows smoking to be a health hazard.

The long - expected and unprecedented federal report—by 10 doctors and scientists chosen for their lack of bias on the issue—will present no new research. Its sole job was to assess the evidence on hand. So in a sense the report will be only as good as that evidence.

Survey Planned For Hancock On College Proposal

A survey to determine interest in the West Liberty State College branch opening in September at the new Weir High School is under way by the Hancock County Board of Education.

Area residents interested in beginning or continuing a college education at the new facility may fill out the coupon on Page 3 of today's Review and mail it to Hancock County Branch College, in care of Weir High School, Weirton, W. Va.

The purpose of the coupon is to obtain an indication of community interest in the branch college and in no way limits the opportunity for students to register at the college when a formal registration date is announced, the Board of Education and West Liberty administration said jointly.

Probe Into Nursing Home Fire Continued

NORWALK, Ohio (AP)—The investigation by the Huron County grand jury of a nursing home fire that killed 63 persons will continue next Tuesday with testimony from at least two more persons.

The witnesses are John J. Carr, state inspector who approved the home's wiring, and Elmer Hall, a former employee of the home.

The jury had been expected to call its last witness Friday in the probe into the Nov. 23 fire at the Golden Age Nursing Home near Fitchville. The investigation is to see if there are grounds for criminal charges.

Carr is believed to have had more books written on its intricacies of play than any other game.

It's Time To Leap Again, Men! . . . To Safety, That Is

It's 'Open Season'

By GLENN H. WRIGHT

The wedding bell-wary area male is especially en garde in 1964, knowing full well women of all ages have been given an open season license by the custom of Leap Year.

Quite a few of the unmarried gals have made their plans and set their caps for one of the more than 27,000 bachelors in the Tri-State area over 14 years old.

The women have a lot of arguments for matrimony, apart from their own beauty, charm and wit.

With a wedding ring, a man can avoid the draft, will live longer, save on taxes, rent a home easier, have an heir and insure against having a lonely old age.

But if 1960 was an indication, there will be fewer men middle-aging than in non-Leap Years in Columbiana County, at least. In 1959, there were 763 marriage licenses issued, in 1961, 766, in 1962, 760, and last year, 751. But in Leap Year 1960, only 742 licenses were obtained.

IN HANCOCK County, however, prospects loom brighter for would-be brides. In 1960, there were 445 marriages, topping the total of 416 last year, 419 in 1962, 441 in 1961 and 433 in 1959.

Although 9 out of 10 persons get hitched before their 32nd birthday, the most popular marrying age for women is 23. If you are a single woman, between 23 and 24, your chances are one in five of catching a man this year.

If you're 30, the odds go to 50-50 for marriage, but if you're over 40, your chances of ever getting wed are one in five.

A look at the available males quantitatively shows about 7,600 (14 years and older) in Columbiana County, 3,000 in Hancock and 16,608 in Beaver County.

All three counties show a higher than normal number of married men, based on the 1960 census which showed 69.1 per cent of U.S. males as husbands. Beaver County had 71.5 per cent, Columbiana County 72.3 per cent and Hancock County 73.1 per cent.

THE AVERAGE marrying age across the nation is 22 for men and 20 for women. Statistics show if a man is between 25 and 28, chances are better than one in six he'll tie the knot this year. But if he's over 30 there is less than three chances in four he'll wed. And if he's past 40, there's only one chance in three.

Since there are two million more women than men in the nation, the competition for Diana, the huntress, will be sharp this year. Of course, for those who want no part of sharing life with a dull male, there are a lot of laughs just watching the ploys and gambits.

Go where the right men are, is the key to a joint bank account. Not in the big cities, where there's a dearth of escorts, or in small towns where the turnover is slow and stock seldom fresh. Airline hostesses, nurses, office workers and waitresses almost always get their man, while school teachers are cut off from the source of supply.

A GIRL'S marriage opportunities lessen with each year of education past high school, but the chances for divorce are also lowered by schooling. That men do settle down into domesticity is apparently due to the determination of the purposeful female. Most psychologists believe that marriage is contrary to the instincts of the human male.

Dr. Theodor Reik claims men are afraid of matrimony. He warns the gals against the man who puts women on a pedestal — making real companionship impossible, the United They Stand? ?

By CHARLES CRONIN

Confronted by the threat of a siege of Leap Year proposals, members of the Wellsville Bachelor Confederation will huddle Tuesday night to plot an effective plan of defense.

That's right, the Wellsville Bachelor Confederation!

Some of Wellsville's most eligible males have joined ranks to ward off unattached women in search of husbands.

There are 35 members in the group, none of whom has experienced a trip down the aisle. If you're divorced, you can't belong. And age has no influence on the membership.

THESE MALES of iron constitution carry wallet-sized cards to help them spread the movement. And they never miss a chance to flash one before the bewildered eyes of a husband sounding off about the woes of matrimony.

The card reads: "The following named brave and reluctant individual, having upheld the rigid requirements of a sustained bachelorhood and having beaten off all determined women, is a full-fledged and bonafide charter member of the Wellsville Bachelor Confederation. May his realm continue unblemished."

The members are to get together to discuss the threat of Leap Year proposals Tuesday night at 10:30 at the Sons of Italy

Club in the former River-view Hotel.

President of the extraordinary contingent of bachelors is Pete Chefalo, 43, an automobile salesman who composed the legend on the cards carried by himself and other bachelor members.

Like most informal groups, the Wellsville bachelors get together over coffee at the SOI Club whenever the occasion arises.

The club has been in existence for a number of years and Chefalo has been its only president.

THERE HAVE been previous clubs for the fugitives from matrimony in past years.

Homer Laughlin, founder of the pottery firm in his name, was a member of such a group.

The Weekly Gazette reported his attendance at the annual meeting in January of 1874.

"Another year has run its course and there are still several remnants of the Old Bachelors Club left to meet in solemn conclave about Mrs. McGilvary's ancient festal board. . . there to recount to each other, with trembling lips, their thrilling adventures and hairbreadth escapes from the wiles and clutches of 'female ogres' who had attempted to force them into a slavery too terrible to contemplate."

Laughlin fell victim to such "slavery" before the end of the year.

On All Bachelors

and music — was attractive, brunette, average build (36-26-36) and weighed 128 pounds. Apparently he found her. His pet peeve about women—"constant complaining or nagging."

Sincerity is the most important thing in a prospective wife, Ralph Fusco of Lincoln Ave., Wellsville, states. Fusco, 29, thinks personality ranks behind sincerity. "Looks don't mean a thing," he claims.

Pete Chefalo, 43, president of the Wellsville Bachelor Confederation, likes respect and a neat appearance in a woman. "Physical appearance and ability mean something, along with neatness and a good personality."

He also feels women should have some of the "old-time respect for men which prevailed years ago — but it works the other way around, too."

"She must like children," Bob Patterson of Ohio Ave., Review classified advertising department salesman says. Patterson, 21, also rates a pleasing personality and clothes-wearing ability high on his list — "Of course, she should like me just a little, too."

"Can sports take the place of a happy married life?" Francis Wise, of Pennsylvania Ave., East End, chemist and assistant superintendent of the water works, says "yes." Golf and softball occupy a good bit of his time and he feels his standards for a perfect mate are rather high, hence the state of bachelorhood.

elohood. She must be "quiet, small and a good cook".

Ralph McNicol, an employee of the Columbiana County Finance Co., prefers a single life as he prizes independence. A resident of 228 W. 9th St., Ralph says "beauty may be only skin-deep, but it matters a lot to him". He evidently will have to attend a "Miss America Pageant" or remain a confirmed bachelor.

"To subject a woman to the kind of a life a coach leads is unfair," quotes Danny Fisher, basketball mentor at Westgate School. Because he has moved around so much, attending three schools and serving a hitch in the Army, Dan says if he stops still long enough and finds a girl with whom he can feel comfortable and with a reasonable amount of intelligence, he may give up his bachelorhood.

There you are, gals. And you still have 355 shopping days — if you want 'em.

Three Of A Kind Pose For The Camera

Not the least bit upset on the occasion of their first family portrait are these cuddly triplet lambs and their proud mother, shown with John W. Herron and daughter, Elaine, on their farm in Beaver County near Laughlin's Corners.

A purebred Hampshire ewe, "Herron's Betsy", gave birth to the three offspring at noon Jan. 4, more or less a special New Year's surprise for Elaine, 5½, who claimed them as her pets.

While twinning in the sheep family are commonplace, triplets are rather unusual, although not to the degree where it could be described as rare.

Herron estimates triplets happen once in every 3,000 to 5,000 births, while a local veterinarian figures it occurs less than that.

Covered with fuzzy black wool on their mischievous faces and legs, with grayish-blue bodies, the triplets have been named Sam, Suzie and Sally. Their mother also gave birth to twins last year, and a single lamb the year before.

Herron is an employee of the St. Joseph Lead Co. at Monaca and his wife is a teacher at South Side High School. Their farm is on a high bluff about a mile and one-half east of Laughlin's Corners.

How Can I? By ANNE ASHLEY

Q—How can I make sure that my hand-knitted garments will stay in shape when laundering?

A. Wash these garments in mild suds, then pat into proper size and shape. Dry thoroughly. When dry, hold your steam iron an inch above the garment, and move it slowly back and forth over the entire surface until the steam has penetrated it thoroughly — never actually touching the garment with the iron.

Q—How can I save the paint that invariably collects in the indented rim of a paint can, flows down the outside of the can, and is wasted?

A. Punch a couple of nail holes in the bottom of this indented rim, and the paint will run back into the can again.

Q—How can I clean an eiderdown garment?

A. Rub it thoroughly with cornmeal, allowing it to stand for a few days, then shake it out thoroughly.

Mrs. Dorothy Horsley—Active With Capital 'A'

By CLARA HALL

Imagine a great-grandmother of 74 actively engaged in a thriving business! And as "active" as the word could possibly mean — arriving at the office daily, managing a hundred and one details and even occasionally unpacking the large barrels of supplies.

Mrs. Dorothy Harrison Horsley of 702 Princeton Ave., owner of the Charles W. Harrison Color Co. Inc., fits the bill.

Dorothy, as she is familiarly known in the community, acquired the business from her uncle, Charles W. Harrison, her father's elder brother, who brought color to this country from England.

About 150 years ago, her grandfather, William Harrison, organized the color company in Hanley, Staffordshire, and the business has stayed in the family.

ALONG WITH color, Uncle Charlie brought the first decal sheets to this country and made quite a name for himself. When he died here in 1947, his obituary was carried by The Associated Press from coast to coast.

It was then that Mrs. Horsley took over the business, continuing the sale of color which is manufactured by the family in England. Shelves at the business headquarters at 621 Broadway, are filled with the 5-lb. sacks, the common medium of sale.

Dorothy was born in London in 1889 and became interested in art while she was in school at Milton Mount College, Gravesend, Kent, England. She married William Horsley in Winnipeg, Canada, in 1907. He died in 1940. She then came here in 1942.

But life is not all business for Mrs. Horsley, who contributes many hours of volunteer work in all phases of community life.

INSTRUMENTAL in organizing the Quota Club in 1948, she served as charter

A Busy Woman And A Busy Desk

president, continued in that office for a second term and has since, served on virtually every committee and in all the offices. At present, she is parliamentary.

Mrs. Horsley is also a charter member of the Columbiana County Affiliate of the United Cerebral Palsy Association and at present serves on the local and state Board of Directors.

Other interests include the Child Counseling Center, where she is first vice president, and the Red Cross, and the Columbiana County Cancer Association. She has been working on a five-year survey to determine the cause of cancer, along a national basis to end in 1964.

She and Mrs. Mary McCullough were largely instrumental in getting new street signs erected throughout the city.

"IS THERE time for a hobby in your heavy schedule along with everything else?" There certainly is—the collecting of antiques.

But, of course, there is a catch with this. Ordinary antiques just simply don't interest her. They must be "beautiful." And what she has surely is, including the 1780 Miessen China tea service.

Last, but certainly not least, is her family.

A son, Jack Horsley, the photographer, operates the Horsley Studio, and her daughter, Mrs. Hilda McEwen, wife of David McEwen, is assistant librarian of Carnegie Public Library.

Still living in Canada is another son, Douglas Horsley in Ontario, associated with Canadian Westinghouse, and another daughter, Mrs. Marjorie Embry of Winnipeg.

Summing it all up are six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Horsley has earned the right to be called a busy, civic-minded and dedicated woman.

Floodwall Takes Care Even When It's Not Being Used

BY HARRY STEWART

A floodwall could easily be compared with accident insurance—it's only good when you need it, although you pay for it year after year.

So it is with the huge, concrete and steel structure that protects Wellsville. The main gate, located at the junction of Wells Ave. and Lisbon St. along the banks of Little Yellow Creek, has been put in place only six times since the dike was built. But it still costs money yearly to maintain the necessary equipment involved.

Plans for the floodwall were launched after the disastrous flood of 1936 that inundated the entire Ohio River valley.

The project was started by the Army Corps of Engineers in January 1938 and the final section was turned over to the city in August of 1942.

THE MAIN WALL, at the upper end of town, was erected in 1938 at a cost of $500,000. The secondary wall, at the lower end of town, was started in 1941 and completed at a cost of $160,000. This section, plus $100,000 worth of equipment needed to operate the dike, was turned over to the city in 1942.

The equipment includes the gates, pumps, flap gates on storm and sewer drains, sluice gates, etc.

Just a few months after the papers were signed by Wellsville officials, the floodwall received its first test. There was some anxiety among the residents about whether it would work and if the gates could withstand the pressure of the surging Ohio River.

But, the first test proved successful, and, according to the records, was the worst test the wall has had to undergo.

THE WATER crested at 47.5 feet at Wellsville on Dec. 31,

Paying For 'Protection'

1942, which meant there was at least six feet of water against the main gate.

Residents, city officials and the Army Corps of Engineers were jubilant over the success of the wall.

Actually there are three gates in the floodwall. Two provide access for the Pennsylvania Railroad into the city. One is the branch into the Stevenson Co. at the upper end of town and the other is on the "Belt Line" which serves the potteries and follows along Lisbon St., crossing at 3rd St.

Preparations for erection of the main gate begin when the river reaches 36 or 37 feet. The work of placing the gate into position starts at 39 feet. This primarily depends on the rate of rise of the river.

The gate consists of steel braces, wood planking, tarpaulins and burlap bags, and is stored in a building near the opening, just off Lisbon St.

Steel plates are set in the street between the two ends of the floodwall. A wrecker is used to set the beams into holes in the street. A minimum of 12-men is required to do the work.

IT TAKES FOUR TO SIX hours to erect the main gate, but less time for the others. The main gate is slanted, backed up with structural steel, covered with heavy planking and then smaller sheeting.

The tarpaulins are placed over this, with the bottom and sides held down with the sandbags. About 15 to 20 tons of sand are used.

It is impossible to completely seal the gate, as water seeps through. This seepage is allowed to run into nearby sewers or is pumped out.

The equipment is inspected and painted periodically. Each piece is stored in the sequence in which it is used.

The Wellsville fire department is in charge of the installation of the gates.

The railroad gates consist of long timbers which are dropped into vertical slots built into the sides of the openings. These are hoisted above the wall and dropped down into place, covered with tarpaulins and sealed at the bottom with clay and sand bags.

THE PUMPS on the sewers are started before the gates are put in place as the pressure of the river forces water through the openings. Sluice gates are dropped to halt this backflow and then the sewage is pumped out over the wall.

At least 41 feet of water is needed to start the water against the main gate.

Other high waters in which the gates were erected were in March 1945, 42-6 feet; April 1948, 39 feet; January 1952, 40.3 feet; October 1954, 42.5 feet, and January 1959, 40.6 feet.

The river rose to 37.2 feet in December 1950, but the main gate was not put up. One of the smaller ones was.

Besides the work of erecting the gates, the firemen also make plans for fire protection of the residential district around Highland Ave.

Once the gate is put up, there is no access to the upper end of town.

THE DEPARTMENT takes one of its trucks and places it on Highland Ave., along with three men. These men stay with the truck until the gates are taken down.

On many of the occasions when this was necessary, the firemen slept on the floor at the home of one of the residents.

A boat is put on the outside of the floodwall as additional protection. If more men are needed to fight any possible fire, others use the boat to transport themselves to the hillside below Highland Ave.

Wellsville was flooded many times before the 1936 flood, which reached 51.5 feet there.

The water reached 44 feet in February 1884; 38 feet in March 1907 and 36 feet in March 1913.

High waters after 1936 were 44 feet in January 1937 and 43 feet in April 1937.

The pumps in the floodwall now are used as part of the regular sewage disposal system.

Wellsville's "premium" for protection against high water is a levy which raises between $5,000 and $6,000 annually for the upkeep of the dike. But the residents are more than willing to pay for the protection when they consider the half million dollars damage caused by the 1936 flood.

It's Not All Wright!

'Flying's For Birds,' Unique Club Claims

By TOM BAKER

"Man will never fly!"

At least according to Dr. E. H. North, director of health and welfare at the Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co., they won't.

Dedicated to defending the law of gravity against attacks by such "radicals" as Wilbur and Orville Wright, Dr. North and Jack Aulis, an Elizabeth City (N.C.) newspaperman, got together in 1959 at Nags Head, N.C., and founded The Man Will Never Fly Memorial Society to pay tribute to those scoffers who refused to believe the Wright Brothers ever got off of the ground.

ACCORDING TO Dr. North and Aulis, otherwise known as thinker number two and thinker number one, respectively, "Speaking logically, man will never fly. Deep in your heart you must know, as we do, the notion that man is capable of soaring off into space is an illogical one; romantic, brave, imaginative, and stimulating perhaps, but obviously ridiculous."

Attending the memorial services for the Kill Devil Hills Memorial Society to mark the anniversary of the first powered flight by man, these two thoughtful men realized that while the achievements of the Wright Brothers were being acclaimed each Dec. 17, and all year through, nobody was doing anything to honor the people who had said "it couldn't be done."

Thus, in 1959, on the eve of the 56th anniversary of powered flight, the Man Will Never Fly Memorial Society was born, with membership being open to "thinking people everywhere."

ADOPTING as one of its many slogans, "Flight is for the birds", the society held its first meeting the following year with some 80 "thinking people" in attendance, and has been growing each year ever since, with more than 200 members in this country, and several others in various countries.

Dr. North proudly pointed out that in a little bar in Hong Kong there is a sign hanging over the bar, "Birds fly: Men Drink."

At this first meeting the room was decorated with twisted ailerons, crumpled rudders and elevators and other evidence of unsuccessful attempts to fly. This is one of the many traditions which has followed through each year at the get-togethers at the Nags Head Hotel in Kitty Hawk, when the members gather to assure each other that the boys "will never get off of the ground the next morning".

THE SOCIETY, which consists primarily of newsmen and women, pilots, representatives of the aviation industry and "other thinking men and women everywhere", have even adopted a fight song, "National Anthem of the Man Will Never Fly Memorial Society", or "The Saga of the Brothers Wright."

Sung to the tune of the Man of the Flying Trapeze, the tune has many verses, with a chorus:

Oh, fill up your glasses and let's have a round

For Wilbur and Orville those men of renown

Who taught us to fly without leaving the ground

And that's what we're doing tonight

One of the first slogans adopted by the society was "Birds Fly: Men Think." A typographical error at one time made the slogan appear as "Birds Fly: Men Drink."

The society delightfully adopted the new slogan, using the unassailable logic, that after all, man was given elbows to bend, not wings to flap.

At the first meeting in 1959, members heard an "on-the-scene recording proving exactly what did happen on Dec. 17, 1903" and a speech by "an unknown national celebrity" proving that the world is flat.

AT ANOTHER meeting, the Wright Brothers (two young businessmen from Elizabeth City, N.C., who really are named Wright) emphatically denied having invented or flown an airplane. Prior to one meeting, the society asked all airlines to order a total shutdown of their planes on Dec. 16.

Chief speaker at the society's 1963 gathering was Col. John Glenn, the free world's first man to orbit the earth. He was inducted at the session as a member of the society.

William Patterson, at the time mayor of Dayton, visited the society a few years ago and vowed to do his best to have the name of Wright-Patterson Air Force Base changed to Wrong-Patterson.

Meanwhile, Dr. North and his band of skeptics continue to honor "the foresightedness of those thoughtful people who, prior to Dec. 17, 1903, said it to Wilbur and said it to Orville."

"It will never leave the ground."

Lodge History

Chester Masons Organized In '09

This is another in a series of stories on district clubs, organizations and lodges which will appear on these pages from time to time.

The large, red brick Masonic Lodge overlooking the Ohio River from 1st St., Chester, has long been a part of the city's life.

The lodge, which currently numbers 265 members, received its charter in 1909, with Isaac Brown, a carpenter, as master.

The first meetings were held in a room over a store along Ferry Rd., and two years later the lodge moved to the upper floor of the Chester Hotel at Virginia Ave. and 1st St.

In 1919, the lodge undertook the purchase of the John Shradler home, forming a company and selling $18,000 worth of stock in the property which it now occupies.

More than 500 attended the dedication of the home, with a large delegation coming up river from Wheeling.

A banquet hall and lodge room were subsequently added at the rear of the building and the mortgage was burned in 1945.

In 1938, the 142 Club was organized to promote social activities and to further assist the lodge, also participating in various community projects.

Pat May of East Liverpool is the current lodge master.

"I know it's leap year, darling, but you can save on taxes if you split your Crucible Steel stock."

Question Corner

What is the foreign stock population of the three area counties?

According to the 1960 census, Columbiana County had 12,479 people described as foreign born or of mixed parentage—foreign born or native. This would include all first and second generation Americans. The county's total population was 107,004.

A breakdown of the foreign stock shows 3,279 from the United Kingdom, 2,474 Italians, 1,688 Germans, 407 Poles, 360 Irish, 293 from The Netherlands, 671 Czechs, 499 Austrians, 256 Hungarians, 347 Yugoslavs, 201 Russians, 605 Roumanians, 445 Canadians and 94 Asians.

Hancock County, with a total population of 39,615, had a foreign stock population of 8,908.

It included 2,169 Italians, 1,215 Poles, 663 from the United Kingdom, 307 Germans, 754 Czechs, 308 Austrians, 419 Hungarians, 698 Yugoslavs, 711 Russians, 643 Greeks and 172 Asians.

Beaver County had a 57,905 foreign stock population of its total 206,948 residents.

Included were 15,061 Italians, 5,894 Poles, 4,232 from the United Kingdom, 1,160 Irish, 4,302 Germans, 5,207 Czechs, 4,029 Austrians, 1,807 Hungarians, 7,845 Yugoslavs, 2,069 Russians, 628 Roumanians, 1,353 Greeks, 693 Canadians and 765 Asians.

Aerial Survey

Would Aid Agricultural Service

The first aerial survey of Columbiana County since the early 1950's to aid the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service is planned for 1964, Clifford Shaw, new office manager of the ASC office at Lisbon, reports.

The new photographs will reveal changes of contours, terraces, ponds and other changes made in the county's topographic features in the past decade.

Shaw, successor to Earl Lora of Salem who retired, said pre-measuring also will be pushed this year.

HE EXPLAINED the use of aerial photos permits the farmer and ASC worker to figure exactly how much acreage is in a given field and to know how much to plant within government regulations on restricted crops.

The system can be used for accurately figuring wheat plantings and acreage diverted from crops to grassland for which a farmer is paid.

Columbiana County in past years has not promoted pre-measured farmland, but in tobacco country, such as in Kentucky, the system has been used extensively.

It is claimed to be accurate enough that some growers have planted a half row of tobacco in an attempt to get as much of the high-value crop as possible planted within the government-allowed limits.

Shaw said few farmers in Columbiana County overplanted allotments last year.

SHAW, WHO operates a 120-acre general farm and machinery agency along Route 30 west of Lisbon, said he and his staff will be busy next month signing up farmers under the feed grain program.

Around April 1 the wheat acreage will be checked for those growers asking for measurement.

Although new in his manager post, Shaw has plenty of experience with the ASC program.

Tri-State Tidbits

Leetonia was named after William Lee of Randolph, N.Y., who was among the founders of the Leetonia Coal & Iron Co. Platted in 1866 and incorporated in 1869, it was one of the fastest growing towns in Ohio in the post-Civil War era. It had one farmhouse in 1865, and in 1870 had a population of 1,800.

Among the four newspapers published at Salem in 1846 was the "American Water Cure Advocate," edited by Dr. John P. Cope who was operator of a water cure establishment in the village of 1,300 residents.

You can add small squares of jellied ready-prepared cranberry sauce to muffins, pancakes and baking-powder coffee cake. But be sure to stir in the tiny jellied cubes gently so as not to squash them. And if it's pancake batter to which you are adding the cranberry sauce, be sure to grease the griddle at baking time.

BLINTZES

This popular dish, submitted by Mrs. Sondra Lynn of 1222 St. George St., is usually considered Jewish, and stems from a Russian background.

The original word was "blintz," meaning pancake, and was contracted in Yiddish to blintz. It is inevitably on menus of restaurants catering to the Jewish trade.

PANCAKES

1 cup flour
1 tsp. salt
1 tbsp. sugar
4 eggs, well beaten
1 cup milk

FILLING

1½ lbs. dry cottage cheese
2 beaten egg yolks
¼ tsp. salt
1 tbsp. butter

Beat ingredients together until smooth. Pour enough batter on heated, well greased griddle or skillet to make pancakes thin and as large as you want. Set aside pancakes until the filling is made.

Mix ingredients for filling and place a rounded teaspoon of this mixture in center of each pancake. Fold over from both sides. Place filled pancakes in jelly's taste.

a baking dish and cover with one finely chopped onion.

Heat for about 15-20 min. in 350 degree oven. Serve with sour cream. Onion may be omitted.

Need something for these cold evenings to serve a crowd? Mrs. Margaret Greene of St. Clair Ave. suggests this dish, which has a Canadian background and which is made with very little preparation.

HOT DOGS SUPREME

4 lb. hot dogs
3 cans tomato paste
1 can tomato soup
2 large onions, chopped fine
Form alternate layers of hot dogs, onions and tomato paste (adding one can of water to one can of paste) in a large roast pan to allow for expansion. Pour the tomato soup and the rest of the paste over the top.

Bake in a slow oven, about 300 degrees, for three hours.

If you like your oven-fried chicken very well done, you may want to bake the cut-up bird as long as an hour and 15 minutes in a moderate oven. Use a half cup of butter or margarine, melted, for basting and season to suit your family's taste.

Midland Whips Hopewell, 64-41, For 12th Straight

The powerful Midland Leopards made Hopewell their 12th consecutive victim of the season by belting the Vikings, 64-41, before a good crowd at Hopewell Friday night.

The win, sixth straight for Hank Kuzma's Leopard five in Section 8 play, keeps them in sole possession of the league lead.

Nate Lippe saw his Viking crew go down to their second straight defeat after winning their first four section tilts. They are currently in fourth place.

Once again it was the play of Sim Hill, Ron Brown, Norman Vanlier and Rod Alston that sparked the Leopards to their win. The foursome combined to score all but six of Midland's points.

Vanlier however was the real sparkplug in the Leopard triumph. The junior playmaker turned in another outstanding floor game and whipped in six field goals and two of six free throws for 14 points.

Vanlier, who stands only 5-11, performed a remarkable feat by being the leading rebounder in the contest. He gathered in 16 stray shots.

Hill and Brown topped the Midland scoring attack with 15

Leopards Post 5th League Victory

markers each. Both sank six fielders. Hill converted three of five foul tosses and Brown made three of six.

Alston also tossed six field goals through the nets. He dropped in two of three free throws and finished the night with 14 points.

Cal Strickler was high man for the Vikings with 11 points, nine coming in the first quarter. Mel Daugherty added nine tallies.

The pesky Midland defense, which alternated full and half-court zone presses throughout the game, effectively bottled up the Viking offense.

Midland experienced another fine night from the field, sinking 27 of 64 attempts for 42 per cent. The Vikings meshed 14 of 48 shots for 30 per cent.

Hopewell held the lead only once in the entire contest, that coming at the start when Strickler dropped a layup through the nets to give his team a 2-0 advantage.

Brown, Vanlier, Hill quickly retaliated with a basket each and the Leopards were off and running. They held a 16-10 advantage at the close of the first eight minutes of play.

Midland increased its margin to 35-22 at the half and 48-31 at the three quarter mark.

In the preliminary struggle, Stan Yukica's Midland Reserves fought off a determined rally on the part of the Hopewell subs to grab a 36-30 victory. Brent Lake sparked the Leopards with 10 points and Joe Prodonovich had eight. Chuck Blaney of Hopewell led all scorers with 12 markers.

On Tuesday night, the Leopards will travel to Rochester to do battle with the Rams. Hopewell entertains the second place New Brighton Lions the same evening.

Western Beaver Topples Beaver In Two Overtimes

The Western Beaver Golden Beavers broke into the win column in Section 8 play with a thrilling 68-64 double overtime upset of the Beaver Bobcats at Beaver, Friday night.

The Golden Beavers of George Hromanik now sport a 1-6 league record and are in seventh place. The Bobcats are 2-4 and are tied with Riverside for the sixth position.

Western fell behind 15-0 in the first period and trailed by a 21-3 count when the first eight minutes came to an end. The remainder of the contest was an uphill fight for the Golden Beavers.

Forward Tom Berovich of Western sent the contest into its first overtime when he sank a layup as the final seconds ticked off the clock.

Each team scored two points in the first overtime before Bruce Singleton, who led the Western scorers with 22 markers, put the game on ice with five key points in the second overtime.

Berovich followed Singleton with 17 points and Pat Marron added 14 tallies.

Beaver's Denny Hromika took the scoring honors for the night with 23 markers. Ned Russell

Top-Ranked UCLA Blasts Southern Cal, 79-To-59

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer
All signs point to 1964 as a glory year for unbeaten UCLA in college basketball.

Top-ranked nationally in The Associated Press poll the Bruins of Coach Johnny Wooden made it 12 straight Friday night with a 79-59 romp over Southern California.

The Uclans, led as usual by "Wonderful Walt" Hazzard, exploded for 50 points in the second half to win going away over the Trojans.

From the way the Bruins have been going UCLA seems certain to again win the Big Six championship and qualify automatically for another crack at the national collegiate championship in the annual NCAA tournament in March.

The national title eluded the Bruins in the NCAA tournament last year and also in 1962, 1956, 1952 and 1950, but this season they may go all the way. They have developed a devastating fast break, triggered by Hazzard and Gail Goodrich.

UCLA's triumph, in which Hazzard was high scorer with 21 points, featured a comparatively slim national program Friday night that also saw the second-ranked Kentucky Wildcats trounce Louisiana State 103-84.

Oregon State, No. 6, the other member of the AP Top Ten to see action, was upset by the Hawaii Service All-Stars 68-65. In other leading games Princeton opened defense of its Ivy League title with an easy 86-57 triumph over Brown and the once-beaten Utah Redskins and New Mexico Lobos edged Wyoming 76-75 and Brigham Young 59-57, respectively, in two WAC contests.

Ted Deeken, with 27 points, and Cotton Nash, with 22, started Kentucky on the road back after the Wildcats had dropped two SEC games to Georgia Tech and Vanderbilt. And Bill Bradley, Princeton's star, finished with 24 points after getting only three points in the first half against Brown.

added six. Wright scored four points in Coca-Cola's loss.

The Potters led 25-21 at half-time and then moved in front 38-28 after three periods.

Cold, Frozen Greens Stall Pro Golfers

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer
SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—The San Diego Open Golf Tournament clearly may be viewed with consternation, a measure of amazement and embarrassment, depending upon the viewer.

It may not be unprecedented but few people close to professional golf can recall when a round spilled over to the next day, two days in succession, with 30 players one day, and 42 the next, awaiting a second day to finish the round of the day before.

Frozen greens and falling temperatures in the night hours are causing the delay.

This was the picture Saturday as play was resumed at the par 35-35 70 Rancho Bernardo Country Club course. Officially the scoreboard read:

Art Wall, Jr. 71-65—136
Bruce Crampton 71-66—137
George Archer 71-66—137
Ray Floyd 73-65—138
But all the players were not in—42, to be exact.

Included was Bob Rosburg. He had a first round 66 and was one under with six holes to go.

There also were National Open champion Julius Boros, a first round 67 and one over with four holes to play; Arnold Palmer, a 73 Thursday, one under with two to go; British Open champion Bob Charles, 69, even with two holes to play, and Tony Lema, 67 and even par after 13 holes.

East To Have Pick Of Two Backfield Units In Pro Bowl

LOS ANGELES (AP)—East Coach Allie Sherman will have his pick of two offensive backfield combinations when his squad meets the West in Sunday's Pro Bowl football game. Sherman, who coached the New York Giants to the Eastern Division championship in the National Football League, named Charley Johnson of St. Louis today as quarterback in his starting unit. Others in the unit are Tim Brown, Philadelphia, halfback; Bobby Mitchell, Washington, flanker; and Jim Brown, Cleveland, fullback. The other backfield has Norm Snead, Washington, quarterback; Don Perkins, Dallas, halfback; Frank Gifford, New York, flanker; and John Henry Johnson, Pittsburgh, fullback. In the West's camp, the defensive squad worked Friday on plays the East is expected to use in the 14th annual classic. "We have to assume that the East will use the best plays in Allie Sherman's New York Giants offense, plus what Sherman used in winning last year's Pro Bowl game," said Coach George Halas, coach of the National League champion Chicago Bears, added that he expects the East to come up with some trick plays. The West selected Johnny Unitas and Gino Marchetti as offensive and defensive captains. Both are with the Baltimore Colts.

Extradited Woman Faces Kidnap Trial
CLEVELAND (AP) — Mrs. Willie Mae Mallory, who lost a 26-month battle against extradition, won on her way back to Monroe, N.C., today to face trial on a kidnapping charge. The 35-year-old negro woman from Brooklyn, N.Y., was turned over to Sheriff D. S. Griffin of Union County, North Carolina, and his deputies Friday night at a motel at nearby Brunswick where they had planned to spend the night. The transfer was not scheduled to take place until today, but Sheriff James J. McGarrick of Cuyahoga County decided to make it Friday night because of several threatening telephone calls he had received.

Mother Of 8 Charged With Killing Husband
MARIETTA, Ohio (AP)—Mrs. Alice C. Bailey, 40-year-old mother of eight children, has been charged with first degree murder in the fatal shooting of her husband. Donald E. Bailey, 43, bled to death Friday on the front porch of the couple's home near Belpre after a .22 caliber bullet crashed through the door and struck him. Washington County sheriff's deputies said Bailey was trying to get his wife to open the door after returning home later than usual from his night watchman's job.
Bolton Raps Johnson, Democrats In House
WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican Rep. Oliver P. Bolton of Mentor, Ohio, has accused the Johnson administration and House Democratic leaders of what amounts to a concerted effort to downgrade the legislative branch of government. Bolton said that they have deliberately deceived the public into thinking that important legislation has been held up by a small band of obstructionists. He based the statement on a recent public opinion poll indicating a growing belief on the part of the public that congress was responsible for stalling any attempt to resolve the nation's most pressing problems.

Junior Editors Quiz on THE OKAPI

QUESTION: How is the queer-looking okapi related to other ruminant animals?

ANSWER: Ruminants are animals which have hoofs, live on grass and foliage and chew a cud; they include cattle, sheep, goats, and also others like antelopes, giraffes and deer.

The rare okapi, which lives in the heavy forests of the African Congo, is also a ruminant, a member of the family "Giraffidae." With its long neck, long legs and sloping back, it somewhat resembles a small giraffe, but it is not—as the real giraffe in our picture seems to think—and undergrown giraffe, but a distinct animal related to the giraffes. It has a red brown or purplish body with striking cream-white head and legs, which last are striped in purplish black in a way resembling the zebra.

This animal is so rare (some say there are only about 5000 left) that there is a great demand for okapis to exhibit in zoological gardens. Hunting okapis is now prohibited by the Congolese government. It is reported that there is an okapi farm in operation and that they are a valuable export, as each animal is worth 5 to 6 thousand dollars.

FOR YOU TO DO: This would be a very good picture to color with crayons, putting yellow over the giraffe and red brown over the darker part of the okapi's body.

Robert Hill of Moses Lake, Wash., wins today's grand prize of a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of The Review and you too may win a set.

One year ago—Premier Adoula warned President Moise Tshombe of Katanga that he would be held personally responsible for further destruction of installations in his province.

Casserole salad: you don't bake it, but you do put it in a casserole! Alternate layers of sliced tomatoes, sliced cucumbers, onion rings and fresh basil leaves in a deep casserole-type dish; add a dressing of olive oil, wine vinegar, salt, pepper and dry mustard. Cover tightly and refrigerate for a few hours to allow flavors to blend.

British laws permit a car owner to hold the same license number for life. The car dealer who holds "A 1" refused $50,000 for the number.

Tentative plans were made to assist the Pleasant Heights Parent-Teacher Association at a ham dinner in February, when the Pleasant Heights Mothers Club met Wednesday afternoon at the school. Mrs. Karla Barrett, president, conducted business.
She reported that three baskets of groceries were distributed to needy families at Christmas. The entertainment was given by Mrs. Pauline Anthony.
It was announced that the PTA will meet Jan. 27 with the fourth and fifth grade home-room mothers as hostesses.
Next club meeting is Feb. 12 with Mrs. Pat Jobe and Mrs. Mary Ellen Wheeler as hostesses and Mrs. Barbara Sisley in charge of the entertainment.

Out Of The Air

By ALAN GILL

Some Songs Are Hard, Some Are Easy

Some songs, like "Bamboo," come hard to the smoothly accomplished folk trio called Peter, Paul and Mary, because the shades of meaning must be established in private bull sessions that are sometimes polite and sometimes gruff.

Other songs, according to Paul Stookey, come more easily. "The first-person song, like 'Don't Think Twice, It's All Right,' is the least-discussed kind of number. Whoever sings the lead establishes the character, and the other two go along."

"THE MESSAGE" song, like "Rocky Road of Life," is another. The initial meaning is clear and it immediately defines our approach to it."

Peter, Paul and Mary, you should note, will sing one of the finest of message songs, "Blowin' in the Wind," on "The Jack Benny Program" Tuesday night (Channel 9 at 9:30) when they aren't clowning around with Mr. B. For that alone, I'd recommend you tune in.

Mary Travers credits what she calls "the explosion of popularity" in folk singing partly to "the barrage of messages" we've been hearing over radio and TV the last few years.

"Folk music is written by people who care, who feel deeply. Almost every folk song has a message, an answer to the question everyone is asking these days."

"KIDS OF 14 OR 15 are thinking very seriously about social inequities and the possibility of world annihilation. They want to know what it means when they see a woman crying on their TV screen and the tears have nothing to do with dating and falling in love."

"There are so many new and important questions around. Folk music is one of the answers."

"This is no time to get depressed about kids. Those who formerly were unreachable are on the upswing. They're at a prime point in life and in history, and they know it. They care."

"Folk music a few years ago was literally underground, in the Greenwich Village cellars, with only an in-group to listen. But now it's come out into the air. For every one who listened then, there are 100 now."

"SQUARES?" asked a visitor. "Well, if they were 'squares,' they are no longer. 'Square' is as un-descriptive a word as 'bean' or 'hippy.' 'Unsophisticated' or 'limited' would be a better description."

"But why has folk music caught on?" the visitor pursued.

"Did you see the movie, 'Tom Jones'?" said Paul. "It's great because it's about the enjoyment of life. It's virile. I think we were as moved as we were by Kennedy's death because of this awful loss of virility."

"And that's the essence of folk music, Bob Dylan's 'Blowin' in the Wind' has a tremendous impact, even if a listener has no idea of its technical accomplishments. Like 'Tom Jones,' it's basic, strong, virile and honest."

"DYLAN, BY THE WAY, is a great performer," Peter Yarrow threw in, "and we draw from him all the time. His instrumental ideas, his fine musicianship and even the reality of him, the HIMSELF—we draw on them."

"Do you miss the Village days?" the visitor asked.

"Oh, sure I miss MacDougal St.," Mary said, "and running down to the coffee shop at 3 a.m. There was a nice family feeling and warmth to those little smoky rooms. I miss the cellars."

"I miss Hide and Seek, too," said Paul. "And I feel fortunate to have played Hide and Seek. But everybody's got to grow up. 'I'm not a traitor to the Village. Those who don't grow out of it eventually, though, lose their vitality. We're leading different kinds of lives now, with a new kind of challenge. And we're growing, all of us. Listen to that third album of ours, and then listen to the first.'"

Earlier, Bob Dylan wrote in his contracted prose-poetry:

"But all of us find our way of knowin' when it's morning. And once yuh know the feelin' it don't change. It can only grow. For Peter's grown. An' Paul's grown. An' Mary's grown. An' the times've grown."

Here's Glossary Of Disease Usually Linked To Smoking

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here is a glossary of diseases most usually mentioned in connection with smoking:

Lung cancer — There are a number of kinds of cancers of the lung. Smoking is usually associated with tumors that begin in the lining or skin of the bronchial tubes, the airway passages in the lung. The most common types are called epidermoid carcinoma and undifferentiated carcinoma.

Other cancers — Some 100 years ago scientists reported associations between tobacco usage and cancers of the oral cavity, the lips, mouth, tongue, interior of the cheek, tonsil and gums. Persons with leukoplakia, small white patches in the mouth, are generally told to quit smoking. There have been some associations with cancer of the bladder, but these are less strong than others.

Emphysema — Often a progressive condition in which the air sacs and small air passages of the lungs become swollen and less efficient. The victim has to work harder to breathe, has difficulty in clearing carbon dioxide and absorbing oxygen. There are a number of causes. The hard work of breathing, sometimes a losing game in advanced patients, can lead to congestive heart failure, when the heart itself becomes worn out and ineffective.

Peptic ulcer — Best information seems to indicate that smoking may prevent the healing in stomach ulcers, but is not believed to cause them.

Buerger's disease — A degenerative process in which the blood flow in the limbs, hands and feet is greatly reduced, sometimes leading to gangrene and ultimately amputation. There are a number of causes, among them excessive smoking.

Toxic amblyopia — Impaired vision due to a poisoning of the optic nerve. There are a number of causative agents, from quinine to alcohol, from excessive smoking to carbon monoxide. Withdrawal of the toxic factor usually leads to improvement and normal vision.

Bronchitis — Smoking has also been associated with the irritation of the bronchial tubes, wheezing and cough, as have other agents and infections. The bronchial passage is lined with small hair-like strands called cilia which act to clear the passage. Some researchers have claimed tobacco smoke retards this action.
